OLD FAVOURITES, NEW TRICKS

Welcome to October!

Have you ever looked through your paper stash and found a collection you absolutely loved, but somehow never quite got around to using? Or discovered a few forgotten pieces tucked away in a drawer that suddenly seem perfect for a project you're working on now?

Well, this month we're hoping to inspire you to take another look at those old favourites and discover just how many new tricks they still have up their sleeves!

Old Favourites, New Tricks is all about looking at the papers, embellishments and little treasures we already have with fresh eyes. Sometimes the best creative discoveries don't come from buying something new, but from finding a new way to use something we already love.

Perhaps it's combining an older paper collection with a new favourite, cutting into a beautiful sheet you've been saving for just the right occasion, or taking an embellishment in a completely different direction. A little layering, a change of colour, an unexpected combination or a clever detail can give familiar supplies an entirely new personality.

And with Halloween in the mix, there's no shortage of opportunities to have a little fun! Whether you're creating something spooky, putting together a special album or simply enjoying some time at your craft table, we'd love you to join us in exploring what happens when old favourites meet new ideas.

Over on our Share & Inspire Facebook page, don't forget o join in with our three monthly inspirational creative challenges to get those ideas flowing.

So, before you reach for something new, why not have a little rummage through your stash? You might just find the perfect paper, a forgotten embellishment or a combination you hadn't thought of before.

As always, there's no single right way to create. Mix things up, experiment, follow an idea wherever it takes you and, most importantly, enjoy the process. I can't wait to see what you come up with!

Happy creating
